CAMPAIGNING IN GEORGIA.

The Candidates Who Are Up Against the Bull Thing.

Atlanta, July 21.—Paul Trammell the only candidate for re-election to the railroad commission has a problem before him which is a puzzle.

This week there came to the commission two queer letters from citizens who evidently mistake the functions of that body. One man at Hiram, Ga., enclosed $3 and asked that a copy of good liquor be sent him at once. The other letter from Taylor, enclosed $1.50 and an order for fifty shrimps of muller, a fish rather strange to the inland waters of Atlanta and her environs.

The commissioners agreed that Mr. Trammell was the proper member to handle these queer requests and now Mr. Trammell doesn't know how to comply with the requests and he writes about turning them down. But he has no objection to his money being fairly well become a campaigner.

DOOM OF CATTLE TICK SEALED.

His Enemies Enter Five New Counties—Progress in Other Counties.

Clemson College, July 21.—These are hard times in South Carolina for cattle ticks. They are receiving very rude treatment—being killed in large numbers, in fact. Rapid progress in the work of state wide tick eradication is reported by Dr. W. K. Lewis, inspector in charge. The work is being done under the joint direction of Clemson College and the U. S. Bureau of animal industry.

Preliminary work was begun July 1 in Edgefield, Saluda, Lexington, Aiken and Calhoun counties. This work consists of locating infested premises in order to have them ready for the actual work of eradication in these counties, which will begin next spring. The work is under a veterinarian and a group of field agents.

Dr. Lewis said that many people in these five counties who are interested and willing to co-operate will clean their premises individually before next year, which will make the work of eradication in these counties simpler and more rapid.

Eradication work is going forward excellently in Charleston county especially in the construction of dipping vats. Twelve or fifteen vats have been built in that county already and there is an expert on the ground who is devoting his time solely to this work. It is expected that by September 1 Charleston will have between 50 and 75 vats for dipping.

The interstate shipping station vat in Richland county was finished recently and a lively movement of stock through Columbia will probably begin as soon as the railroads have built the necessary free and unfettered pens. Dr. Lewis said he knew of some shippers in other states who are waiting for these pens to be completed to begin moving stock through Columbia.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE.

Would Pass a Law to Protect the Purchasers of Oysters.

Atlanta, July 21.—The general assembly expects to have a busy week before it. So there are many matters hanging over the house and the session is nearly by renewing the debate on the bill to abolish the office of solicitor general and create that of prosecuting attorney. The senate has under consideration a similar bill, which puts solicitors on a salary instead of fees.

This week a bill, buried since last session, designed to protect owners of oyster beds and consumers of oysters against the pirates who rob private beds and sell the bivalves, carelessly handled, to innocent consumers. The bill was the work of Jesse E. Mercer while he was state game commissioner, and has the hearty backing of the fish and game commission.

Owners of oyster beds are suffering losses and others are kept from going into the business of raising oysters by the prevalence of thieves, mostly negroes who row out to the beds at night, steal the oysters and market them to unscrupulous parties, often handling them in an unsanitary and dangerous way. The law would require licensing of all dealers, the fees to go toward paying coast patrols who will keep unlicensed boatmen away from private beds.

DON'T STOP CULTIVATING.

Experts Laying Much Stress on Importance of Continuing.

Clemson College, July 21.—"Don't stop cultivating now." This advice is being urged upon farmers at this time persistently by the extension division of Clemson College. In many parts of the state conditions are such that to leave off cultivating before the proper time will probably mean loss of crops.

Repeated demonstrations have shown that it pays to continue with shallow cultivation of cotton until the earliest bolts are matured. Also it has been demonstrated that corn should be cultivated until it is in the roasting ear stage.

There is some anxiety on the part of the extension workers that farmers will make the mistake of ceasing to cultivate at or near the usual leaving time. This, it is said, will be much too early this year, because the lateness of planting and germination of a large percentage of the crops, on account of this year's exceedingly dry spring, will necessarily extend the growth and maturity of these crops well into the autumn months.

Cultivate cotton until the earliest bolts are matured.

Cultivate corn until it is in roasting ear stage.

These are two principles which are being urged upon every farmer in South Carolina at this time.

SCHOOLS OF THE COUNTY.

Superintendent Felton Makes Important Recommendations.

"Every school in Anderson county having as many as 50 children should keep under the head of rural graded school in order to receive state aid in the amount of $200," declared Mr. J. S. Felton, county superintendent of education today. "We now have 26 of these schools in the county receiving state aid under this head, and there are at least 15 more that should meet the requirements and come in."

The principal reasons why these 15 schools have not or do not meet the requirements because they have no special tax of four mills for school purposes. This is the first requirement. The next important requirement is the teachers for a term of six or more months. "The thing is the average attendance is not 80 but the average attendance every school in Anderson county would run even months. With the co-operation of the people and the department of education this can be done in Anderson county in the year 1914-15," declared Mr. Felton.

New York Cotton

New York, July 21.—The fact that the weekly covered report disappointed bullish expectations as to conditions in Texas turned the cotton market easier today after it had, during the forenoon advanced about 10 points over the previous night. There was a good deal of realizing and not a little fresh bear selling, on the idea that the advance was a full reflection of whatever damage had occurred from dry weather in the southwest. The close was steady with prices unchanged to 3 points higher.

Regarding all sections of the belt except the southwest, the weekly report was quite bullish. Even in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas it said the early planting was standing the drought fairly well and that boll weevil appeared to be doing little damage in Texas. Liverpool was credited with large sales through brokers in the early part of the day but the Texas news was so bullish before noon that offerings were well absorbed and prices held firmly until after the weather report was issued.

New Orleans Cotton

New Orleans, July 21.—The price of cotton fell off today under selling inspired by the weekly weather reports from the government. At the lowest trading, months were 6 to 8 points under yesterday's close. The close was at a net loss of 3 to 6 points.

In the morning the market stood at a net gain over yesterday's close of 6 to 7 points as the result of the dry weather map, on the western belt was concerned, and prospects of more dry weather to come. The market was steady at 11 o'clock, when the weather reports were read, but did not display any real strength afterwards. The dry weather in the west gave the market a good undertone, however, throughout the session.

Spot cotton steady, unchanged. Sales on the spot 1,750; to arrive, none.

Cotton futures steady. Closing: July 13.09; August 12.82; October 12.44; December 12.46; January 12.50; March 12.60.

Cotton Seed Oil

New York, July 21.—Cotton seed oil was firm on early support of old crop months by refiners and scattered commission houses buying of forward positions. Toward the close, however, late months turned easy, reflecting the heaviness in lard and cotton. Final prices were 3 points higher to 1 net lower. Sales 13,600 barrels.

The market closed steady spot 7.24; 7.20; July 7.23; 27; August 7.24; 28; September 7.24; 29; October 6.99; 29; November 6.99; 29; December 6.99; 29; January 6.99; 29; February 6.99; 29; March 6.99; 29; April 6.99; 29; May 6.99; 29.

Cotton Goods

New York, July 21.—Cotton goods market was quiet today with an easy tendency for brown goods. Jobs were moderately active. Light weight men's wear for summer also was bought liberally but staples were quiet.

Grain & Provisions

Chicago, July 21.—Black rust damage increasing and reports that Central Russia was face to face with famine conditions carried the wheat market today to a higher level. There was a steady close, 6-8 to 3-4 1/2 above yesterday's close.

Corn prices 14 to 1-2 net; oats finished unchanged to 1-8 1/4 up and provisions varying from 10 cent decline to a rise of 1-2.

Stocks and Bonds

New York, July 21.—For the first time in more than a week a fairly general advance in stocks was witnessed today. The movement, made largely at the expense of a formidable bear faction, embraced all the prominent leaders as well as many minor stocks.

Prices at the outset were down. Bullion and United, Erie and Wheeling and New Haven 1-2 were among the securities that fell to new levels.

Before midday the market swung around on rumors of an early advance in gold.

Financial and Commercial announcement of the eastern freight rate decision.

Gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded in less than an hour.

Foreign exchange made another smart advance, its strength being again attributed to political conditions on the continent.

Bonds steadied after early indecision, due to weakness in New Haven and a few other issues. Denver and Rio Grande refunding 5s advanced 4 1-2 per cent. Total sales, par value, amounted to $1,500,000. U. S. Bonds were unchanged on call.

Live Stock Prices.

The level of prices paid to producers of the United States for meat animals decreased 1 per cent during the month from May 15 to June 15. This compares with an increase of 1.6 per cent in the price level from May 15 to June 15 last year, a decrease of 2 per cent two years ago, a decrease of 1.7 per cent three years ago, and a decrease of 1.1 per cent four years ago, from May 15 to June 15.

In the six months from December 15 to June 15 the level of prices for meat animals advanced 5 1/2 per cent. This compares with an advance of 1 1/2 per cent during like period a year ago, an advance of 16.8 per cent two years ago, and decline of 12.3 per cent three years ago, from December 15 to June 15.

On June 15 the average (weight-4) price of meat animals—hogs, cattle, sheep, and chickens—was $7.22 per 100 pounds, compared with $7.19 on June 15 a year ago, $6.27 two years ago, $5.45 three years ago, and $7.29 four years ago.

WEEKLY CROP REPORT

Washington, July 21.—Weather was generally favorable for cotton during the week which ended last night, except in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, according to the national weather and crop bulletin, issued today by the department of agriculture. Summarizing conditions, the bulletin says:

"Widely distributed showers, with moderate temperatures and the usual amount of sunshine, greatly improved the condition of cotton over all eastern and most central districts and the prospects continue good.

"In the western part of the belt practically no rain occurred in Texas and only small amounts in Oklahoma and Arkansas. High temperatures prevailed during much of the week and late planted cotton is suffering severely. The early planted is standing the drought fairly well, but rain is greatly needed in most of the district.

"Boll weevil conditions remain about as previously reported; they appear inactive, however, and are doing little damage in Texas.

"In the principal truck growing regions of the south to eastward of the Mississippi river conditions were generally favorable and all crops improved.

Weather and crop conditions for the week were reported as follows:

Virginia—The week averaged showery and cool, and vegetation made rapid advance. Corn, truck and gardens are in good condition, and tobacco is much improved. Fruit is doing well. Haymaking has advanced and pastures are in fine shape.

North Carolina—There was much cloudiness with unevenly distributed rains, but the weather was generally favorable for crops. In the northwestern part too much rain fell, retarding cultivation. Moisture is insufficient in some southeastern counties. Early cotton is unusually well advanced. Peaches and melons are plentiful.

South Carolina—The crop improvement continued under frequent showers, old corn especially gaining. There is still some complaint of drought locally. Cotton has done well, although locally heavy rains were detrimental. Melon prospects are good.

Bad Habits of Hens.

Feather eating and egg eating among fowls are often traceable to overcrowded conditions in the poultry house. Fowls need plenty of room to move about and exercise in. Feather eating is likely also to be due to a lack of animal diet or the ravages of mites.

Separate the gully birds from flocks as hens are very quick to learn bad habits from one another. For egg-eating fowls supply nests with plenty of straw so that eggs will not break accidentally, and darken nests. When a hen is a confirmed egg-eater the safest course is to kill her and prevent the spread of the habit.
